DELIVERABLE 1.3 – AMPHORA WEBSITE

As the core element of the dissemination strategy, the AMPHORA website was launched in May 2009 (www.amphoraproject.net). The public part is intended for the use of researchers and decision makers, and also of the public in general, and allows unrestricted access to all internet users. It contains the general description of the project, including background, objectives, and partners, and also links to the presentations of AMPHORA at various major events. It is expected to be continuously updated with documents showing the progress of work. Access to the Members Area of the website is restricted to the Consortium partners, and is intended as a tool for enhancing synergies and communication between partners through forum discussions, and also as an additional resource for the management and coordination of the project, e.g. event reminder.
